

THE PUMP CONNECTION

Fall 2026

Hello Network! As the Founder of mypump.ca, I am excited to share our first newsletter. Thank you so much for taking the leap and coming on as early participants, your ongoing support is greatly appreciated. The push is to organically build a small trusted network connecting experienced professionals with meaningful short-term opportunities. We're slowly but steadily seeing progress with lots of good work still to do. Keep your ideas, preferences and recommendations coming. Here are some highlights to share:

Irene MacLean, Founder

Network Momentum

The first marketing outreach contacted 227+ non-profits, small businesses, start-ups and business associations across Alberta and Interior BC. These initial contacts and conversations are helping build awareness and open doors to future partnerships. We are currently preparing for a second outreach to start in October 2026.

What's New at mypump.ca?

Capacity Boosters: new web page launched in August 2026, will provide talent features, tips, and practical tools.

Community Events: A FREE online board was posted in September 2026. Professionals and organizations can post events, learning sessions, and social opportunities for network interest.

Fall 2026 Priorities

In Fall 2026, we are prioritizing talent searches for interim operations leads, grant and funding specialists, business development and outreach support, finance professionals and change or process improvement advisors. These roles draw on experience, judgment, mentoring, and execution skills—and directly reflect current market needs.

Talent Showcase

The Talent Showcase currently highlights five (5) talent profiles, each bringing a distinct mix of skills, capabilities, and experience.

Don't forget to check out the talent feature on Aishat including details on her new entrepreneurial venture called SwypeLearn which will be launching this fall. Good luck Aishat!

What We've Learned So Far – Flexible Talent Matters

We've spoken with several non-profits and small businesses. They are responding to the current employment market with tighter cost controls, diversified revenue, digital tools, partnerships, and leaner operating models. This creates a good fit for experienced professionals who can add capacity when needed, without requiring long-term fixed commitments.

Management professionals across the board have similar engagement interests. They value well-scoped projects where they can solve problems, mentor others, stabilize operations, or fill temporary leadership gaps. Professionals are looking for assignments that help support career transitions, semi-retirement, caregiving responsibilities, travel, or time to recharge—while keeping them professionally active.

We're always looking for talented management professionals!
